Jamie Waselenko, MD

One of your P.A.'s told me your office motto, I can't quote but certainly know the gist of it - something like, "We worry more than we need to so that our patients won't have to." This office esprit de corps which you impose, along with your highly developed observations of physical details in your patients and your ability to interpret minor details and future possibilities in sometimes conflicting and "normal range" lab reports make you, in my eyes, a very special doctor.
